Who will be named EEA Farm Family of the Year?

Winner to be announced at the Farm Bureau banguet

By Brenda Bunting

Editor
Ten local families have been honored since 1986 by the Western Palm Beach County Farm Bureau. They have been recognized for their generosity to the community, their support of local activities and churches and for being the backbone of the Glades, says Farm Bureau Director Karl Larsen.

Previous farm family recipi-ents help chose the new farm family. Past recipients include: The Joe Orsenigo Family, 1986-87; The Bob Simonson 1986-87; The Bob Simonson Family, 1987-88, The Clarence Pate Family, 1988-99, The Fritz Stein Family, 1989-90, The Ruth Wedgworth Family, 1990-91, The Clark Hull Wilkinson, Family, 1991-92, The Schlechter Family, 1992-93, The Lewis Friend Family, 1993-94, The J.H. Chamblee Family, 1994-95, and the Billy Rogers Family, 1995-96. The banquet this year will be held Sept. 10 beginning at 6:30 p.m. at the Belle Glade Elks Lodge. Tickets for the roast beef dinner are $15 and can be purchased by members at the Farm Bureau office, 30:19 State Road 15, Belle Glade

A representative from the Sugar Cane Growers Coopera-tive will be the guest speaker. They will discuss current issues affecting the industry and give the history of the cooperative.

The Western Palm Beach
County Farm Bureau is a local, grassroots organization, says Mr. Larsen. "We try to speak out on issues which will affect the citizens of Palm Beach County. There are a lot of benefits to being a member of the Farm Bureau," he added.

Senator Tom Rossin will be at the dinner and will give brief comments. For more information, call Secretary Beth Painter at 996-0343.

Stories that we all could learn from during this most active time of the hurricane season

By Mike Lyons
"I tried to walk from our back door to our laundry line but was slammed back against the house. I was frightaned."
The Greene had good reason to be frightened. She didn't know it at the time but Mrs. Greene was about to experience one of the worst hurricanes in recorded history.

Hurricane Edouard followed a similar path as the '38 storm earlier this week. Edouard, earlier this week. Edouard, however, moved much slower and was not as powerful. The 38 storm produced a wind gust of 183 mph.

Mrs. Greene was one of the lucky ones. She survived to tell the tale of that terrible day. So, did many other people living and vacationing on Long laland at the time.

Soon, ocean waves were smashing against her house. The family fled to the second floor of their beach home, then floor of their beach home, then, when the waters continued to rise, to the attic. "Our house still stood, though perilously," she writes. Except the living room and master bedroom. Torn off by the waves, it floated by us and disappeared.

There are many more stories in the book. Stories of survival, stories of tremendous courage, stories that tell the tale of one of the worst storms we've ever seen. Stories that we, who may never have been through a hurricane can learn from dur-ing this most active time of the Well, here we are again, right smack dab in the middle of hurricane season. Some of you "old-timers" don't get too excited about hurricanes, but after seeing the damage of Hurricane Andrew a few years ago, we all need to be alert and aware of the damage that hurricanes and tornadoes, spawned by the hurricanes can do. We don't have to "turn tail and run" but there are special things all of us can do to prepare our families to 'weather' the storms.

of us can do to prepare our families to 'weather' the storms.

One of the first things that experts suggest to do is to clear the areas around your home of any loose debris that might 'take flight' in a strong wind and become a deadly missile. That good old bar-houe grill looks innocent enough until a strong wind sends it flying into a sliding glass door or window. Pick up any loose boards, chairs, garbage cans, etc. and put them in a secure place.

Start now collecting necessary food and water supplies to last for 3 days. Peanut butter and tuna fish are some of the quickest things to disappear from grocery shelves! You should have enough water (one gallon per person per day) to last you for 3 days also.

You are art risk if you live on one of the outermost to work the const. You are very much at risk if Store water in sealed, unbreakable containers.

Use your bathtub and fill it with water to flush the toilet as needed. Gather a supply of clothing for each member of the family and secure it in a waterproof container, if available. Batteries for flashlights and radios will be needed. Make sure you have cash and credit cards handy, as well as an extra set of car keys and fill the car with gas. For those of you on medication, make sure well ahead of the storm, that you have an adequate supunbreakable containers.

or recreational vehicle, even when threatened by a minimal hurricane. If you live along a river, creek, saltwater canal or in a lowlying area, you may need to evacuate the area. The option to stay at home is yours if your house is safe from potential flooding and able to withstand high winds.

Established in 1965, Glades Day School is a private school that strives to prepare its students for productive lives by: 1) concentrating on the mastery of basic skills in the major academic areas; 2) offering a wide variety of enrichment courses and extracurricular activities; 3) and encouraging moral and spiritual development. Glades Day School operates on two campuses, a 20-acre main campus, and a campus located one mile west from the main facility. The elementary school serves Pre-K through 6th grades on both campuses. The main campus also serves Grades 7-12. Physical facilities on the main campus include 2 science laboratories, 2 computer laboratories in the high school and 1 in the elementary, a cafeteria/auditorium, band room, glee club room, gymnasium, athletic fields and elementary playground, and a gymnasium/auditorium.

The elementary curriculum encompasses the junior academic program as well as art, music, physical education, Spanish and computer skills. A Specific Learning Disabilities program for students diagnosed as SLD is also available.

A two-track program of studies is offered on the high school level; academic and advanced academic. While both tracks focus on teaching each student the essential skills in the core curriculum areas of language arts, mathematics, science and social studies, the advanced academic track also focuses on college preparatory classes. Enrichment programs are provided in computer science, foreign language, music (instrumental and vocal), and physical education.

With a football program second to none, the "Fighting Gators" can boast of 4 state championship. Additional features that GDS offers include interscholastic athletics (basketball, volleyball, baseball, softball, tennis and golf) for boys and girls, Academic Games competition, marching and concert bands, Glee Club, a variety of clubs/organizations, lunch program and bus transportation.

Admission policies require a personal interview, transcripts, teacher recommendations, and test results. Financial aid is svailable in the form of tuition assistance.

We're still waiting and that's a dangerouthing to do when something is needed so badly.

Any update?"

Editor's response: Permits and legalities have delayed installation of this light, but the good news is that we are almost there. According to Gene Simmons, Director of Public Works for the City of Belle Glade, the engineer is finishing the designs for curbing, etc. for the intersection and the local Department of Transportation must approve the designs. Once they get the approval then they can get started. The City of Belle Glade will be handling the curbing and the county will be installing the light. The school bell has sounded throughout the state of Florida, welcoming students back to the classroom. As we embark on a new school year, I want to take this opportunity to reflect on the power of education and the responsibility we all share, as parents, educators and community members.

The collective student body of the state of Florida represents the most diverse and the largest in our state's history - more than 2.2 million students from all points of the globe. They are in classrooms throughout Florida to tobtain one of the greatest gifts our society can provide: opportunity for a quality education. The child in one desk is as unique and worthwhile as the child in a desk one siale over. This does not mean they will all learn at the same pace, with the same exuberance or that they all face the same challenges to learning. It means that we must find a way to reach all of them, challenging them to achieve at the highest levels.

Today's students cannot afford to pay the price that comes with falling to achieve. The price is high: limited opportunities, low-paying jobs, and membership in what appears to be an ever fast-growing club known as the semi-permanent underclass. It has never been more important to set high expectations for our students and to provide them with the knowledge and shills necessary to meet those expectations. As we begin the new school year, I am pleased that public education in Florida has at its disposal both old and new tools to help us accomplish the tremendous job before us.

First, the new tool: the Sunshine State Standards.

This year, our schools will begin implementing a set of statewide academic standards that establish clear expectations about the knowledge and skills today's students will need to achieve in order to succeed in the world beyond high school and become productive adults. The standards have been developed in seven academic areas and are divided into four grade levels. At each grade level, the standards are specific and clear for each subject area, establishing a strong foundation at the early grade levels and building on that foundation through progressive grades.

Teachers can use the standards to help develop lesson plans to reflect the knowledge strongless.

Teachers can use the standards to help develop lesson plans to reflect the knowledge students will be expected to understand. Parents can use the standards to track their child's progress and to support them in their studies. Communities and others with a vested interest in quality education (which should include all of so, can use the standards to gauge the preparedness of students as they exit public education and enter college or the job market.

We will measure how well students are achieving the standards using an assessment test developed specifically for Florids. The

We will measure how well students are achieving the standards using an assessment test developed specifically for Florida. The Florida Comprehensive Assessment Test (FOAT) will be filed-tested by every student in Florida in the spring of 1997 and formally administered statewise in the spring of 1998. Together, the Sunshine State Standards and the FOAT are a bold step toward giving parents the confidence that public education will prepare their children adequately for the work force or college; giving businesses confidence that high school graduates have the skills necessary to enter the work force; and giving students confidence that their diploma is a symbol specific to the state of t

A wise perspective is important to older people because it helps them to accept things the way, they are at a time when it is hard to come to terms with the realities of aging, she said.

"Philosophically, old age becomes difficult for people because their physical abilities decline, they lose social importance when they retire, and they may lose their spouse and other loved ones, forcing them to confront their own

Mrs. Carter was invited to speak at the conference due to her ongoing work at the Ros-alynn Carter Institute (RCI) Americus, Georgia. The ecific mission of the Insti-around exceptional study an air-around exceptional student miss King is truly an example of our nation's finest young leaders. We need to recognize and our world has coming for-ward to lead and teach. This is but another of numerous awards Denelda earned upon ment in 1994.

Pat Parke was a dedicated high school social studies teacher in Ashland, Kentucky who died in 1993 as the result of a home secident.

Knowing her dedication to the education and training of young people her family has established this scholarship fund to honor her memory and continue her work.

The fund is open to high school students planning to enter the teaching profession.

The fund is represented locally by her brother and sister-in-law, Rod and Lida Ruby.
